Profile

I have taught skiing for more than 25 years and diving for over 15, on four continents, to every level and age. I grew up and still live in the mountains around Laax, and I spend as much time outside as I can: skiing, ski touring, climbing, flying, biking, running and diving. My day job is running a software company, which has made me good at organising people, staying calm when plans change and explaining things clearly in five languages.
